Women Techmakers is a program created by Google to highlight the talent of women in technology. This year, we decided to organize the first edition in Montreal as part of the special event "The Women Techmakers Global Event Series Celebrating International Women's Day" (WTM IWD), which has seen more than 200 global events across 52 countries. This community building initiative promotes talented and passionate women and increases the visibility of the Montreal tech community while honoring women in technology.
